

The loci of megafares on the surfaces of fully convective stars

Ekaterina Ilin, AIP Potsdam

Question:

Where do giant flares occur on small stars?

(Tentative) answer:

Close to the poles!

Implication:

Regions of strong magnetic fields reside at high latitudes in rapidly rotating fully convective dwarfs $>M5$.

